SMELTER LAW MUST NOT PASS

Communication to the Deseret News.

ays Farmers Are Making a Great Mistake to Compromise With Companies by Signing Agreement.

Editor of the News:

I see that the smelters have succeedd in paszing a bill through the house giving them eminent domain. The peopie of this valley ought to kill this bill without fail, for if it is not killed it will give the smelters the power to rob any man of his home in Salt Lake valley wherever their smoke injures his place in any respect. And this is the object of the smelters in trying to pass such

Last year there was not a single place in the valley that was not more or less affected by smelter smoke. The pine tree; in the yards in the city are dying now from smelter smoke, many of them have been killed already. Last year the trees all over the city were riddled with smoke and the nuisance will increase till the smelters either shut down or are compelled to put in smoke consumers. This latter they will never do till forced to do it, or shut

This law of eminent domain if passed will give the smelters the power to take any man's home away from him and pay practically what they like for it and he will have no redress in law, provided their smoke kills or injures his regetation or steck, or even his health is injured.

is injured. The farmers are making a great mistake to compromise with the smelter by signing away their rights by ease ment as some of them have done al ment as some of them have done already under the representation that the smelters will abate the smoke nuisance as isst as they can. Their promises are not worth anything and will not be kept. The same thing was done at Anaconda, Mont., when the Amalgamated Copper company promised to abate the smoke haisance by building a great stack a thousand feet above the valley and by putting in great flue chambers over half a mile long. The farmers settled with the company under this representation for $350,000 because the smelter people promised in writing that representation for $350,000 because the smelter people promised in writing that if they did not abate the smoke nuisance by these means they would settle all future claims without lawsuits. Within a year after the new stack and fine chambers were in operation the trees began to die for a distance of 25 miles from the smelter clear up to the smelter. The stock died off by the hundreds, and many people died. The smelter. The stock died off by the hundreds, and many people died. The farmers then went to the smelter people and demanded a settlement and were coldly told to get what they could out of the courts, for the smelters would neither arbitrate nor settle. This is just the way it will be here. The smelters will agree to do any number of things, but when it comes to a show down they will pay nothing that the courts do not compel them to pay.

The smelters are claiming that the bag houses that they are erecting at the American and United States smelters will do away with the juisance, but they know better; they know that no lag house ever invented will stop sulphur fumes. They claim that sulphur fumes de not do any harm when every scientific man with any sense knows scientific man with any sense knows batter. This fact has been settled for 50 years ever since the time of Haubner. It was settled by the German government long ago, also by the royal com-mission of the house of lords in Eng-land, by the United States government in the Shasta case, and by the greatest lawsuit ever tried at Butte, which has just come to a close, in which the Amal-gamated Copper company was com-pletely defeated, and with which I have pletely defeated, and with which I have been connected for the last two years.

The bag house being erected by the Unitd States Mining company is a farce and wholly incompetent to do the farmers any real good.

Don't fail to defeat this eminent domain bill at once, for it is a bill drawn by the shelters to ruin the farmers.

Every representative and senator that by the smelters to ruin the farmers. Every representative and senator that favors this bill ought to be forever shut out of public life.

When the smelters are compelled to put in proper smoke consumers, then they can operate right where they are and do no harm, but not till then.

Very truly yours,

MARCUS E. JONES.

Senate Presents Rev. P. A. Simpkin With Token of Esteem.

Rev. P. A. Simpkin was the recipient last night of a beautiful token ent last hight of a beautiful token from Utah's state senate. It was presented with a view of Indicating the esteem in which he is held by those for whom he has invoked divine blessing during the past 60 days. At the passage of the appropriation bill last night "Parson" Simpkin was called before the bar of the senate on the charge of destring that body. It was declared that despite the fact that he had prayed extra long on the behe had prayed extra long on the be-ginning of the sixtieth day still there had been hours and hours of work with no invoking of divine grace since that time.

Before he had time to plead in his own behalf, President Love took the chaplain in charge, and presented him with an I. O. O. F. watch fob beautifully inscribed "To Chaplain P. A. Simpkin from members of the senate, Seventh legislature of Utah."

In presenting the token, President Love said:

"It was represented to this distinguished body that in the event that you were selected to make petitions duily in our behalf that the result of your labors would be apparent in the many wise laws that would adorn our statute books, as a result of our coming together. It was understood that you would ask for light and guidance to give the members of this body strength and sense to perform their duties.

"In the first place, it has been of no avail. There is no second place. Behold the results. The yawning mouths of the waste baskets are bursting with the brains efforts of the budding statesmen and Galveston bills, while measures requiring the stamping of the avordupois of the maker of eleo-margarine on the wrapper of each package litter up our statute books and give his excellency the nightmare. and give his excellency the hightmare. However, you probably are not altogether to blame. Some senators, I know, did not maintain that reverence that the occasion demanded, and realizing that the task imposed was almost hopeless from the first, still we have felt that you have made an honest affort and in commendation of seat affort and in commendation of have felt that you have made an honest effort and in commendation of associations at this session it is my happy privilege, on behalf of the senate, to present you. Parson Simpkin, with this little token of our esteem and trust. I hope it will, when you exhibit it to your friends in the days to come recall to your remembrance the more or less strenuous days of the Seventh legislature.

"We have enjoyed your efforts in our behalf and hope that your words will be as bread cast upon the water, Will return after many days."

WALNUT RAISING MADE PROFITABLE

So Says Marcus E. Jones in a May be Grown Successfully in Many Parts of This State.

MAKES SOME GRAVE CHARGES. VIEWS OF HON. THOMAS JUDD.

The Culture of Walnuts Safer Than That of Almonds in These Parts.

In a report to the state board of horticulture, there is a splendid article on the raising of walnuts, from the pen of Hon, Thomas Judd. It is shown that the toothsome walnut, for which thousands of dollars go out of this state every year, can be successfully and profitably grown in various parts of Utah. The subject is one that should claim attention from persons in a position to give the venture a trial, and for the benefit of those who may be interested, Mr. Judd's article is here given in full.

I have spent much time and money, in the growing of the almond nut, having planted at different times about 150 acres. From my experiences and investigations, I believe the wainut to be the safer crop of the two, as the almond blooms much earlier than the walnut,

CALIFORNIA GROVES.

Not long ago I was down in southern California on business, and as a part of my work, I visited a number of orange and walnut groves, orchards and vineyards. The walnut groves interested me the most, some of them valued as high as $1,000 per acre and were very profitable at that figure. I was much impressed with what I saw in this line for I felt that it could be duplicated in many parts of Utah, where the land and season were suited, and as an investment could be made very profitable. I take the following from a paper read by Luther Burbank, at the State Fruit Growers' convention at Santa Rosa, California: "Judge Lieb, of San Jose, who has made special study of the walnut in every condition for several years, has obtained samples and definite particulars from many American and foreign growers, and with a careful personal inspection of the best orchards of this state, has after the most severe tests, concluded that for growing in northern and central California but two varieties need me considered, the Franquette and the Santa Rosa.

"Take point by point, in comparison with all others now known, they appear to stand at the head for general culture here. The Franquette is an old, well-known French walnut, grown only by grafting. The Santa Rosa so far, has been grown mostly as seedlings, and even grown in this way has proved to be all that could be desired in early ripening, early bearing, productiveness, and quality; but among these seedlings are found some trees which are most remarkably early and constantly productive of astounding crops of nuts of most perfect form, color and quality. Some of the best of these will, in my opinion, supplant the Franquette, for though the Franquette blooms later than the Santa Rosa, and produces a fair crop each season, almost without fail, but rarely a full one, in a series of years the Santa Rosa generally will outyield it two to one, besides being harvested with much less care, and expense, ripening, causing much care and expense in harv with the Franquettes, for growing in this part of the state, is their late ripering, causing much care and expense in harvesting and curing. The size, appearance and quality of the nuts are all that can be desired, although the Santa Rosas generally have a whiter shell and the husk does not require removal by the hand, as in the case with a large part of the crop of Franquettes. To those who have had experience in this kind of work on a rainy day nothing more need be said. The Franquette seems well adapted to some of the larger interior valleys.

"In all cases the best results will be obtained by grafting on our native California wainut or some of its hybrids. No one in central and northern California who grows Royal wainuts on their own roots need expect to be able to compete with those who grow them on the native black walnut roots. For when grown on these roots the trees will uniformly be larger and longer lived, and will hardly be affected by blight and other diseases, and do and will bear from two to four times as many nuts, which will be of larger size and of two to four times as many nuts, which will be of larger size and of much better quality. These are facts much better quality. These are facts not theories, and walnut glowers should take heed.

not theories, and wainut glowers should take heed.

"Although not popular among nurserymen, yet the best way to produce a paying orchard of walnuts is to plant the nuts from some vigorous black walnut tree, three or four in each place where the tree is to stand. At the end of the first summer remove all but the strongest grower, cultivate the ground well: any hoed crop may be grown among them. Let the trees, grow as they will for from three to six years, until they have formed their own natural, vigorous system of roots, then graft to the best variety extant which thrives in your locality, and if on deep, well-drained land you will at once have a grove of walnuts which will pay af present, or even very much lower prices, a most princely interest on your investments.

"By grafting in the nursery, or before the native tree has had time to produce its own system of roots by its own rapid-growing, leafy top, you have gained little or nothing over planting trees on their own roots, for the foliage of any tree governs the size, extent and form of the root system; take heed, as these are facts, not fancies, and are not to be neglected if you would have a walnut grove on a safe foundation."

foundation."
Mr. Burbank is considered to be very good authority on this subject, I have therefore taken the liberty of quoting from this paper.

SOME UTAH TREES

I have found walnuts growing in various parts of the state, both black and English, but little attention has been paid to them. Much of the inforbeen paid to them. Much of the information I have gathered in regard to this matter was very encouraging. For instance in the orchard of John Grat of Santa Clara, Washington county, Utah, I found several wainut trees, one in particular had made good growth being 25 or 30 feet high. I heard that these trees had grown from nuts planted 13 years ago. The largest tree had been bearing several years. In 1996 about 50 pounds were produced and in 1996 from 50 to 100 pounds; in 1995 more than 150 pounds were gathered. The smaller trees had some good nuts on, but the quantity was not in proportion to the larger trees. The nuts from the larger trees were excellent. I cured some 30 pounds which will be found on exhibition at the board's exhibit in the chamber of commerce, Sait Lake City, Mr. Graf said further that he sold his walnuts at 15 cents per pound, and that one tree brought him at least 25 dollars, for the crop of 1966. mation I have gathered in regard to

He is very enthusiastic on the walnut question, saying that he would rather have 160 trees like his larger trees than a hundred good cows. I found the same thing in Toquerville, Washington county. Here I saw a black wainut treatuilly 40 feet high and a trunk about two feet in diameter. I also found trees of the English variety raised from seed, about 10 years old, at La Verkin, Washington county. These were bearing some nuts also. In traveling through Millard county the past season with Secy. Taylor, we were much impressed with the opportunities for walnut culture in that county. At Filmore we saw some very thiffty, good tooking trees, and noticed several black walnut shade trees on the street loaded with shade trees on the street loaded with nuts. At Lehi and many other places in the state these nuts have been suc-cessfully rajed.

In the state these than he constitute raised.

In reviewing this question I am satisfied that being able to graft the Royal wainut on the native black, will be I great factor in the success of this business for the black wainut grows well in almost every part of the state.

I am satisfied also that persons interested in this line of work will do well to give this matter careful consideration, and if only a few trees are planted on suitable land will, in times to come, be profitable and ornamental. In regard to the almond I would not recommend extensive planting; they recommend extensive planting; they bloom very early in the season and are not a safe crop. A few trees planted in a warm nook comparatively safe from frosts would be nice for family use, but I would not suggest anything more. The following varieties are good: J. X. L. or Ne Plus Ultra.

DO NOT CROWD THE SEASON. DO NOT CROWD THE SEASON.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilirating air and sunshine. Children that have-heen housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The bedry winter ciching is throw, aside and many shed their fiannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much more danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remody, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleusant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale by all druggists'
